

Water vapor becomes clouds.

Clouds release rain or snow, which falls to the ground.

Sun's heat causes water to evaporate.

Water soaks into the ground and runs into lakes and rivers.

